The essence of the front page of this edition of this online edition of City Events must be the immensely gratifying beginning of the gradual return to 'live' recitals in the City churches. The first church to do this is St Olave Hart Street with a trio of recitals on consecutive days, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday 19th, 20th and 21st of May. Thursday 20th May will also see the return of live organ recitals at St Margaret Lothbury. Online recitals continue at St Michael Cornhill, Temple Church and St Bride Fleet Street. Details of the works to be performed in the live recitals together with those in the online recitals are to be found on pages 12 to 18 below. At this point we must remind readers and potential attendees at the live recitals that it is important to remember that each church may have particular COVID-19 compliance requirements, including limits on the number of people in the church. Thus readers wishing to attend these recitals are strongly advised to visit the website of the church or to contact the church to ascertain such information. Needless to say we already have advance information concerning recitals to be held beyond the date Sunday 23rd May at the end of this two week online edition of City Events. It is to be hoped that more City churches will feel confident about a resumption of live recitals.

With regard to City Events our plans, for the time being, will continue to be to compile an online version covering a period of two weeks with an update at the weekend in the middle of that two week period. When we judge there to be a sufficient number of churches holding live recitals and concerts we will recommence publication of the printed version of City Events with copies being distributed to City churches as was our custom. Needless to say that is a special event to which we are indeed looking forward.

Turning to our customary review of forthcoming online recitals, such is the range of works to be performed that we will have to exercise the sifting procedure of looking at those works which 'catch the eye'. In no particular order the first of these is the organ work Prélude et Fugue sur le nom d’Alain Op 7 by Maurice Duruflé, to be performed by Roger Sayer at Temple Church on Wednesday 19th May. Many readers will be familiar with some of the variations on the motif BACH (over 400 works by over 300 composers, including Bach himself). One has to note that German musical nomenclature working with the notes BACH in which the note B natural is named H and the note B flat is named B would seem relatively straightforward compared with using the motif ALAIN. Online research reveals the ingenuity of the well-known composer Maurice Ravel when he composed his Menuet sur le nom d’Haydn. Ravel extended the musical alphabet beyond H (B natural) with the letter I denoting musical A, J denoting B (B flat), K denoting C, L denoting D etc. In this way ALAIN becomes ADAFF, in other words (i.e. notes) the D minor triad. Alain was the surname of Duruflé’s friend and colleague, organist and composer Jehan Alain (1911-1940). Jehan was the brother of the distinguished organist Marie-Claire Alain. It was the sudden death of Jehan during the early months of World War 2 which inspired Duruflé to honour him by writing Prélude et Fugue sur le nom d’Alain.

It must be stressed that all of the works listed in this online edition of City Events are all worthy of note but inevitably certain pieces stand out and one of those that ‘caught the eye’ is to be performed at St Bride Fleet Street on Thursday 20th May by Simo Šišević. This is Beethoven’s piano sonata No 23 in F minor Op 57, colloquially known as the Appassionata. It was composed during 1804 and 1805, and perhaps 1806, and was dedicated to Count Franz von Brunswick. (1777–1849), brother of Josephine Countess von Brunswick with whom Beethoven was romantically associated. The work was not named during Beethoven’s lifetime. This was done by the publisher of a four-hand arrangement in 1838. Nowadays it is regarded as one of his greatest and most technically challenging piano sonatas. Noting the years during which it was composed it should be remembered that 1803 was the year in which Beethoven came to grips with the irreversibility of his progressively deteriorating hearing.

As was stated in the opening paragraph the return of live recitals in the City churches is very gratifying and we can be confident that more churches will feel able to resume the important mounting of live performances. Doubtless COVID-19 compliance requirements may well initially restrict the numbers attending but we now have the beginning of a return to a form of normality in the City churches.
CITY EVENTS – City Churches   Monday 10th May to Sunday 24th May 2021

The information given below is mainly that obtained from the websites of the City churches, and from direct contact with some individual churches, up to 6th May.

Whilst every effort has been made to make this survey as accurate as possible, from our experience changes may well occur at short notice. Thus it is essential that readers visit a church’s own website for the latest information regarding opening times and times and other details of services and other events. If readers are planning to visit a church in person it is also desirable, if possible, to contact the church direct by telephone or email. It should be remembered that each church may also have particular COVID-19 compliance requirements, including limits on the number of people in the church.

Visitors and worshippers must remember that they are required to wear face coverings and maintain social distancing in line with current regulations; for detailed guidelines and information sheets, please visit the Church of England’s Coronavirus Guidance for Churches at https://www.churchofengland.org/more/media-centre/coronavirus-covid-19-guidance-churches.

Monday 10th May 2021 — St Michael Cornhill

Tune in to the Father Willis organ of Salisbury Cathedral played by Joseph Wicks in English music from the pens of Elgar, Alcock, Brewer and Best;

and in the exciting Prelude & Fugue in F minor by Dupré.

But is it the organ of Salisbury Cathedral?

Or a usurper?

Perhaps with a great German name?

Find out THIS MONDAY LUNCHTIME
by joining the St Michael's Cornhill online audience.

THIS WILL ALSO BE AN OPPORTUNITY TO CELEBRATE THE WORK OF THE ORGANISTS CHARITABLE TRUST, WHICH HAS BEEN BUSY HELPING ORGANISTS DURING THE LOCKDOWNS.

All you have to do is click onto Zoom (using the link below) between 12.45 and 1.00pm. You will be joining other members of the online audience, and will initially be unmuted (and therefore free to exchange greetings, should you wish to do so). At 1.00pm it will be my pleasure to introduce the distinguished recitalist, and to chat with him about the music, the instrument and the Organists Charitable Trust. At 1.15pm we switch to YouTube for the premiere of the recital. Even if you miss the lunchtime performance, this will continue to be available on the YouTube Cornhill Music channel.
